WHO I AM

I'm Anastasios Tatarakis Larentzos, but you can call me Tasos. As a web developer, I specialize in blending creativity with technology to help businesses thrive online. My past experience enables me to develop robust, scalable web applications and websites tailored to meet business goals. By focusing on data security and efficient solutions, I aim to be part of a team full of creative ideas looking to move forward. My approach to problem-solving involves researching new technologies, implementing solutions in smaller projects, and scaling them up for maximum impact. Outside of work, I enjoy 3D printing, playing basketball, and engaging in nerdy talks about specialty coffee.
